Beautiful Alaska

Alaska is the largest of all the fifty states. In some ways, it is the most unusual. This state begins above Canada and reaches far north. It extends all the way to the frozen Arctic Circle. Fewer people live in Alaska than in many other states.

Alaska has a very cold climate. However, plenty of wildlife can survive. White polar bears stomp across the ice hunting for food. Musk oxen huddle together to keep warm. Their shaggy fur coats protect them from the bitter winds.

Each year, thousands of tourists visit this unusual state. They travel to beautiful glaciers and snow-covered mountains. They might see a black bear grabbing a salmon in a mountain stream. They might spot a beluga whale in ocean waters and hear its sweet song.

On some nights, brilliant splashes of blue, red, and purple appear in the sky. This natural event is called the northern lights. It's just one of the many things that make Alaska a land of wonders.
